EUROPE BIOBANK WEEK - ROADSHOW

ESBB and BBMRI-ERIC are delighted to announce a new, common community engagement activity, our EUROPE BIOBANK WEEK ROADSHOW. The EBW ROADSHOW consists of a series of smaller and regional face-to-face events covering a fine selection of hot topics in biobanking. We'll bring EBW on the road and invite you to join us for high-quality scientific programmes, opportunities to meet and discuss topics with your peers, and exchange information with companies at exhibitions. Our topic forecast covers Quality in Biobanking (Germany), Paediatrics (Italy), and Information Technology (Austria). While we focus on the EBW ROADSHOW this year, we are planning to relaunch our successful face-to-face EBW CONGRESS in spring 2023, hereby mitigating risks due to the continued COVID-19 pandemic.

PAEDIATRIC BIOBANKING AND MINOR ENGAGEMENT

We invite you to the 2nd Europe Biobank Week (EBW) Roadshow Meeting & Exhibition held at the Children's Bambino Gesù Hospital, in Rome, Italy, from 13–14 October 2022. This meeting has been organized by ESBB and BBMRI-ERIC in partnership with the BBMRI ERIC Stakeholder Forum Patient Pillar, the Children's Bambino Gesù Hospital, the IDEA Network, and the National Node BBMRI.it. The meeting will kick off with an overview of European commitment to paediatric research and healthcare, followed by an in-depth exchange on good practices, highlighting the priorities set by various actors to raise awareness and encourage citizen science, facilitate assent and consenting processes, and improve engagement. The first day will close with a keynote speech on the use of innovative genomic approaches with undiagnosed patients and precision medicine in children by Franco Locatelli and Marco Tartaglia. The second day features parallel breakout sessions to support the codesign of a shared recommendation on paediatric biobanking. We invite you to enjoy the amazing scientific programme, meet and discuss topics with your peers at the poster session and networking event, and exchange information with companies at the exhibition.

Biobanking in the modern world involves data and sample-based research. It presupposes the construction of an inclusive extended scientific community that works as a team between all the players. It asks for a new social pact for science. Without citizens' understanding and engagement, biobanking does not work. Patients, citizens, and families, new generations, are the heart of biobanking, making it possible for research to benefit all of us.

Good practice Session FROM ASSENT TO CONSENT: COMMON ISSUES AND DIFFERENT APPROACHES

Biobanking with children challenges our practice. It requires us to recognize the child as an active participant, with all the rights that we confer on adults. We need to rethink the issues of assent and consent, and to move towards dynamic and participatory models of regulation and interpretation. It's a huge change of pace and represents a significant challenge in terms of engagement of a participant, the minor, who progressively but often separately acquires decision-making competence and legal capacity. So, who is primarily responsible for proposing to the minor that they might participate in research biobanking? What tools are available to inform and increase the child's understanding? By whom is the child's capacity assessed to understand and assent?

Co-Chairs: Stella Antoniou, Valentina Colcelli

Liselot Mus (UZGent/UGent, Belgium)

Anwar Baban (IRCCS Children's Hospital Bambino Gesù, Italy)

16:30 - 17:15

Good practice Session MULTI-ACTOR ENGAGEMENT TO BIOBANK TOGETHER (EARLIER, OVER TIME, FOLLOWING U

Biobanking can be compared to a team-game, to the multidimensional action of a system based on transparency, inclusion, participation, and reciprocal engagement. Each actor, from the family to the clinicians, to the Research Ethics Committees, the researchers, etc., is necessary for the development, sustainability, and fairness both of biobanking and of data-based science. This is critical with children, they are individuals in evolution, with a situated vulnerability: paediatric (research) biobanking practices need to collect samples before diseases develop and maintain a prospective follow-up. Such a process would entail the involvement and the conscious commitment of all the players along time. This implies a training shift based on innovative empowerment models that engage all the actors.
