

3. Annual Meeting of the ÖPPM (Austrian Platform for Personalized Medicine)

"Personalized Medicine: Expectations and Economic Aspects"

An interdisciplinary program aims to evaluate the different expectations of stakeholders and, at the same time, to critically address the economic, regulatory and technological challenges on the way to implementation of Personalized Medicine in a health care system strongly marked by the principle of solidarity. Invited talks, a public lecture and panel discussions will provide ample opportunity for in-depth discussions throughout the conference. During the two workshops facilitated by the working groups of the Platform, position papers will be drafted and active participants will have the opportunity to shape subsequent publications as co-authors.
