

Away with the mask!
Nasal spray instead of corona mask: is this the future?

RTL, August 2021

A young company from Upper Austria may bring us a little bit closer to this dream. Together with the Medical University of Graz, the researchers want to bring a nasal spray onto the market that will be an alternative to the mask.

The researchers discovered a special protein in bananas. Initial research results show, that this protein is able to neutralize coronavirus. How exactly this might work and which other products the young company is researching in the fight against the virus - you can find out in the video .
